About NETASQ

NETASQ was established in 1998 and is one of the leading European network security vendors with more than 35,000 appliances sold to date. It develops innovative solutions aimed at protecting its customers' data, communications and infrastructure against computing threats that keep increasing in number while growing more dangerous and more diverse.

NETASQ is best known for designing and building the NETASQ UTM, a range of "all-in-one" Network Security appliances that combine multiple security features in one device. Features include intrusion prevention, firewall, antivirus, antispam, content filtering, VPN access and NETASQ SEISMO for improved real-time vulnerability detection and risk management. The foundation of the software architecture on these appliances is the unique, multi-patented ASQ (Active Security Qualification) operating system that fully addresses the requirement for "zero day" proactive security.

To help companies fight the spam epidemic while ensuring that no valid e-mail is ever lost in the process, NETASQ MFILTRO mail security appliances combine antispam filtering features with antivirus and antispam modules, and provide a quarantine option so that every employee controls what happens with mail identified as spam.

NETASQ relies on a network of over 300 partners who market solutions in over 30 countries throughout Europe, the Middle East, Northern Africa and Asia.
